Introduction:

Oral hygiene maintenance is an important part that one must practice during infection from the coronavirus. Oral hygiene maintenance and oral care are the two crucial factors during COVID pandemic times. Nursing professionals are the first line of contact for a patient. Therefore it is necessary for a nursing professional to be well informed and updated about the oral hygiene and oral care measures during COVID -19 infection.

Centre for Dental Education and Research, All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi is conducting this training programme for the nursing professionals to educate them about the do's and don'ts about oral hygiene during COVID19 pandemic times. By virtue of this training programme, we envisage to empower the Nursing professionals on the different oral hygiene measures to be followed by COVID patients and the different drugs used to treat the common oral symptoms occurring during COVID 19 infection in patients.

Objectives:

- To train nursing professionals on oral care during and after COVID -19 infection
- To sensitize the professionals about COVID 19 related oral signs and symptoms
- To update on remedies regarding COVID 19 related common oral problems

Intended Audience: Nursing Professionals
